Madison County accident claims lives of a father, toddler

By Rhonda Smyth
CV&T News Editor

Friday just before 8 a.m. a man and his young son were killed in a traffic accident on KY 52 in Madison County near the Estill County Line. Kentucky State Police Trooper Ken Bradley was dispatched to the scene where a preliminary investigation revealed that Joshua Nelson, 28, was driving a Chevrolet sedan west (toward Richmond) on Richmond Road with his wife Taylor Shea Nelson 24, and sons, Jacob Nelson, 3, and Jonah Nelson, 1, all from Waco. According to a KSP press release, a Buick sport utility vehicle, headed east, being driven by Lance Patterson 46 of Richmond, attempted to pass another eastbound vehicle. The vehicle hit the Nelson vehicle head-on. Patterson's son, Cody Patterson, 16, was a passenger in the Buick. Joshua Nelson and

Jacob Nelson were pronounced dead at the scene by the Madison County Coroner. Taylor Shea Nelson and Jonah Nelson were transported to University of Kentucky Hospital with life-threatening injuries and were listed in critical condition. A report on Lex18.com stated that Jonah was released from the hospital on Sunday, while his mother remained hospitalized. Her condition was not known at press time. The Patterson men were transported to Patti A Clay Hospital for treatment. Lance was taken to UK Hospital for additional treatment for his injuries. The elder Patterson is the ROTC instructor at Estill County High School and Cody is a student there. The cause of the collision is still under investigation by Kentucky State Police. A reconstruction of the accident was held Saturday.

KSP solves Beattyville theft case

By Rhonda Smyth
CV&T News Editor

Kentucky State Police Trooper John Scott Felder solved the case of a stolen motorcycle from Beattyville in 2011. The uniform citation prepared by Felder states that he received information that the motorcycle had been seen at 260 McKee Road. He stated that when he contacted those living in the apartments there, they told him they had seen Timothy Mayes with the motorcyle and that he was working on it and had control of it. Felder stated that he had observed the motorcycle sitting at the bottom of the steps leading to Mayes' apartment. The citation states that the 1975 Harley-Davidson motorcycle was stolen in the late fall of 2011 from Beattyville which Felder confirmed by running the vehicle identification number through the National Crime Information Center. Felder stated Mayes was not present when the motorcycle was recovered. Felder arrested Mayes, 30, and lodged him in the Estill County Jail. His bail was set at $5,000 and he pleaded not guilty at his arraignment.

By Rhonda Smyth
CV&T News Editor

Estill County has some of the best and brightest students anywhere and some of them were honored at Thursday's meeting of the Board of Education at central office. Matthew Smith was given a certificate of recognition for being the state senior secretary of state essay winner. He is a senior at Estill High, the son of Jerry and Diane Smith. The Estill County High and Middle schools academic teams were recognized for winning district and regional Governor's Cup competitions. The Future Problem Solving teams have qualified for international competition and will go to Bloomington IA June 7-10 to compete. The junior ROTC Raiders were honored for their success in their first year of competition. They are led by Lt. Col. Lance Patterson. He spoke about each student as he gave them a school board recognition certificate. Assistant Superintendent Randall Christopher gave his monthly update about the construction of the new West Irvine Elementary School. The old building has been torn down and students now have classes in the new building. "We are ready to pour the floor for the last wing, and if the weather stays good start laying block after that," Christopher said. He also said the work on the school should be completed by Oct. 1. The school system received two grants from the Kentucky Arts Council See BOARD A2

Help support Grandparents United

The Estill County Grandparents United, a club for grandparents who are raising their grandchildren, made this quilt that they are selling chances on. They want to raise money to be able to take their grandchildren to the zoo and other places. They will also use the money to help out individual grandparents with purchasing things like shoes for their grandchildren or hair cuts for the grandparents. Community Education Director Teresa Dawes said they traced pictures from a coloring book onto the white quilt block squares and colored them with crayons. The finished product is called a "A Crayon Quilt." Chances are $1 for one or six for $5. For more information about Grandparents United or to purchase chances on the quilt, call Teresa at 723-2181.

Irvine-Ravenna Kiwanis Club celebrates 90th birthday at Cedar Village

CV&T photos by Teresa Hatfield-Barger Above-The Irvine-Ravenna Kiwanis Club recognized Tom Bonny, Eugene Bush, Charles Vanhuss and Bobby Rose for their outstanding service to the people of Estill County for many years. Vanhuss is the oldest and has been a member for 65 years, the longest in the club. Pictured are Bonny, Bush, President Kay Scrivner, Vanhuss, Rose and Kentucky-Tennessee Kiwanis Governor Donald Ritter. Below-Members and guests were served this cake.

A member for more than 65 years, Charles Vanhuss compiled this history of the Irvine-Ravenna Club which he read at the 90th birthday celebration at Cedar Village Thursday night.

Remembering Kiwanis in Irvine, Ravenna and related events

For a period of time from 1915 until the early 1920's the L & N Railroad was engaged in building a switching yard and repair complex for engines and cars at a site near what is now Ravenna, Kentucky. Ravenna was a town with mud streets and buildings/houses in various stages of construction. Irvine was a town of horses and wagons/buggies with its roots firmly planted in rural America. However, 20th Century America was emerging and vast changes were on the way that would forever effect Irvine, Ravenna and Estill County. On April 19, 1922, fifty-two men met in the old Wallace Hotel in Irvine to organize the Irvine-Ravenna Kiwanis Club and to breathe new life into the community. The club was among the first in the nation to be organized and it has been in continuous service for 90 years. The club has survived war and depression, good times and bad, and it has surmounted the ups and downs that seem to be the lot of any civic organization. It received its charter on November 24, 1922 having been sponsored by the Winchester, Kentucky club. It's chief objective was to bring industry and business to the county but over the years, it's scope has widened to include all manners of civic activity. Many can remember the queen in the story of Alice in Wonderland. She advised Alice to dream impossible dreams every day, and it seems that the Irvine-Ravenna Kiwanis Club has borrowed a page from the queen's advice. However, it is an established fact that dreams do not come to fruition without dedicated leadership and sound direction and our club has been blessed with a fair share of committed and able men (and women) all through the nine decades of it's history. That is the primary reason for the striking successes of the many programs of the Irvine-Ravenna Kiwanis Club.

It is well known that agriculture is a prime economic resource for our county and it has frequently been the focus of the Irvine-Ravenna Kiwanis Club programs down through the years. In the early years, the club championed and fought for the issuance of county road bonds. Those bonds were sorely needed in order to help get farmers out of the mud, in which they were entrapped, and into cities where they could market their produce. The club was successful in this effort and the county road program was established. The Irvine-Ravenna Kiwanis Club also sponsored corn shows and it spearheaded the movement to bring the first county agent to Estill County in 1924. Every county agent since that time has worked closely with the Club on programs to improve the lot of agriculture in the area. During the 1950's, it was decided that the beef herd in the county needed to be upgraded both in quality and quantity. The Irvine-Ravenna Kiwanis Club was called upon for help and became

Fox arrested on drug charges

Jennifer L. Fox, 31, of Church House Hill , was arrested by District One Constable Danny Conrad last Wednesday and charged with three drug related offenses. Conrad's citation states that he was called to 106 Court Street to investigate a woman slumped over the steering wheel of a black 2003 Chevrolet behind an apartment building. The citation states that when Conrad spoke to Fox, he noticed a blue powdery substance coming out of her nose and on her face. Conrad stated she told him she had snorted Xanax and Saboxin and admitted to driving the car to her location. Conrad stated on the citation that the car motor was still warm. Conrad took Fox to Marcum & Wallace Memorial Hospital for a blood test and asked her if she had anything on her person that she needed to tell him about before he took her to jail and she said no. She also denied having anything on her person when she was asked by the female jailer at the Estill County Jail. While searching her the jail allegedly discovered a needle hidden near her abdomen. Fox was charged with operating a motor vehicle under the influence of drugs, first offense; first degree promoting contraband; and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Estill County Judge-Executive Wallace Taylor was given a surprise birthday party last week to celebrate his 50th birthday. The surprise was on his staff when he arrived early, before most of the invited guests. Cake and punch was served to the guests and he blew candles out on a small cake with the words "Happy Birthday Bull Whisperer." He told the story of how he got that name , but if you want to hear it, you'll have to ask him. He was given a "senior basket" and other age appropriate gifts. He declared "You got me!"

May is beef month

May is Beef Month in Kentucky in honor of one of the Commonwealth's most significant agricultural industries. Commissioner Comer issued the proclamation in a ceremony in his Frankfort office.

As one of nearly 40,000 beef cattle producers in Kentucky, I understand the importance of the industry to the state's economy," Commissioner Comer said. "Beef cattle sales accounted for $615 million in cash receipts to Kentucky producers in 2010. Beef also is an important part of a balanced, healthy diet. I urge all Kentuckians to join me in commemorating May as Beef Month in Kentucky."

Kentucky is the largest beef cattle state east of the Mississippi River with nearly 1 million beef cows as of Jan. 1. A 2007 University of Kentucky study found that the beef industry had a total direct, indirect, and induced economic impact of more than $1.8 billion.

Commissioner Comer is founder and owner of James Comer Jr. Farms, a 950-acre beef cattle, timber and hay farming operation in his native Monroe County. He also co-owns Comer Land & Cattle Co., a family farming operation, with his father and brother. The Kentucky Department of Agriculture helps producers find new markets for their cattle, conducts beef cattle shows, tracks market prices, and protects Kentucky's herds from disease. Ted's Frankfort Report

Legislature in special session for drug bill

Five days into a special session called by the governor to pass a two-year transportation budget and a prescription-drug monitoring bill, the Kentucky General Assembly approved both pieces of legislation and shipped them down to the first floor of the State Capitol to be signed into law.

House members were, for the most part, intent on moving the $4.5 billion Transportation Cabinet budget in House Bill 2 and legislation cracking down on so-called prescription “pill mills” in HB 1 to the Senate without delay. After all, the House had already agreed on similar legislation during the regular session that had just concluded—but those bills weren’t given final approval in the Senate.

The unwanted, but necessary, short special session cleared up any disagreements about the legislation, allowing them to be passed by both chambers and sent to the governor for his signature.

HB 2, which included the same Transportation budget language found in the earlier HB 266, sailed through the House on a 96-2 vote and later received final passage in the Senate by a vote of 37-1. At least one high-ranking lawmaker called the bill “the reason” that the special session was called, since it would provide the funding for a required two-year state Road Plan that was passed in the regular session and signed into law by the governor on Wednesday.

The other issue on the special session agenda—curbing the state’s growing problem with prescription pain killers by cracking down on fly-by-night pain clinics known as pill mills—became known as the “pill mill bill,” or HB 4 in the regular session. It became known as HB 1 in special session, although the House initially passed the bill in a form that was different from what had been agreed to by both chambers during the regular session.

Ted Edmonds

“Different”, in this case, was not better in the minds of many lawmakers in the Senate, and in the House.

Changes in HB 1 that caused the most disagreement were, apparently, centered around language that would have moved control of the state’s prescription drug monitoring system, called KASPER, to the Attorney General’s Office and allowed the office to charge licensed health care providers a maximum $50 annual fee to maintain the system.

Supporters of the changes said that, while no one wants to add a fee, the Attorney General needs that flexibility for maintenance of the KASPER system, which all licensed providers will be required to use under HB 1. They also say the responsibility for tracking prescribing abuses needs to be in the hands of the state’s chief law enforcement officer—the Attorney General—and not the Cabinet for Health and Family Services which currently oversees the system.

But those dissenting lawmakers in both chambers questioned giving the Attorney General so much power over medical records, among other concerns. That, and other matters, led to more vetting of HB 1 in committee meetings throughout the day on Friday.

By early evening, the Senate and House had approved an amended version of HB 1 that left oversight of KASPER with the Cabinet and includes no allowable provider fee, but will require licensed providers across the state to use KASPER when prescribing or dispensing pain killers for patients—a requirement that members of both chambers had called the crux of the pill mill issue from the beginning.

When we lawmakers left Frankfort on April 12 at the close of the regular session, we all knew a special session was inevitable even if unwanted. Now, we are confident in the work we accomplished this week in the quickest time possible to pass legislation in special session: Five days.

No, the legislative process does not always unfold neatly. But, with a little hard work and compromise on both sides, we can conclude the Commonwealth’s business in a manner that is both timely and judicious.

If you would like to read the text of either bill considered this special session of the Kentucky General Assembly, you can do so by logging onto the Legislative Research Commission website at www.lrc.ky.gov or by calling the LRC toll-free Bill Status Line at 866-840-2835 to check the status of a particular bill or resolution. ## LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Resident expresses concerns to city council

To the editor:

I have some concerns I would like to address to Mayor Farmer and the Irvine City Council. I wonder why the city collects from people who are trying to make a few dollars by having yard sales but does not hold people accountable when they leave their trash and household items on the curb all week, and refuse to mow their lawn, allowing weeds to grow up around the residence. Trash should be set out the night before pickup and cans removed as soon as practical after pickup is complete. When left on the curb, the trash is scattered around by dogs and other animals and it is usually other neighbors that have to pick it up. I have read in the paper where the city is always in need of funds. Just think how much money the city could make if they enforced these ordinances.

The Mountain Mushroom Festival seems to be the only time of the year that the city is concerned about the appearance of our community. When residents fail to clean up around their house, it also affects everyone in the area. A few years ago my property insurance was cancelled due to the trash and clutter on my neighbor's lawn. I then had to find another agency to insure my home.

If you enforce other ordinances then the trash ordinance should be enforced also, along with the failure to mow lawns. There are older homes literally falling in and abandoned, and no one is making the owners clean the properties up. On my street alone, there are at least two properties in disarray, that are either falling in or have been demolished and the debris has been left. This is not only unsightly but it brings down the property value of the other homes.

I know the mayor and council members have been notified on several occasions concerning these problems. We are always promised that it will be taken care of, however, nothing is ever done. I have been a lifelong resident of Irvine and I, along with my neighbors want our street to look nice. We have been faithful taxpayers to this community and we feel our voice is not being heard. I wonder how long it would take Mayor Farmer to enforce these ordinances if it was happening next door to his residence.

Sincerely,
Violet Dozier

President should change direction not the subject

Look, at a time when America’s corporate income tax is now the highest in the world, we should be looking for ways to make it easier for businesses to hire, not harder. At a time when unemployment is above 13 percent for young people between the ages of 20-24 in this country, we should be finding ways to make it more likely they can find work, not harder. But this is the Obama economy. This is President Obama’s approach. This is the painful legacy of his failed economic policies. The president may not want to discuss it. But Republicans will.

Over the past several months, President Obama has kept a pretty busy schedule of campaign events. But as the president heads out for more campaign-style events this week, let’s not forget that what he’s actually doing here in Washington is far more important than what he’s saying out on the campaign trail.

Because when the speeches are over and all the chairs and the posters are put away, great challenges remain. Millions of Americans are still looking for work. The federal debt continues to cast a shadow over the american dream, and despite assurances made last year, there’s no budget in sight from the Democrat-controlled Senate. And as the Associated Press reports just today, about half of all college graduates can’t even find a decent job in this country.

Now, I understand why the president wouldn’t want to talk about these things, but that doesn’t change the fact that he should. And it doesn’t change the fact that his policies are the problem.

The American people elected this president to change direction, not to change the subject. Yet day after day, week after week, as our nation’s challenges deepen and another economic crisis draws nearer, this president wants to change the topic. He wants people to focus either on something else or to overlook the things he’s actually doing to make the situation worse.

Mitch McConnell

Take gas prices. Gas prices have more than doubled under this president. Yet rather than do something about it, he blames it on the speculators and energy companies. Instead of increasing domestic production, he’s focused on a plan to tax American energy manufacturers — a plan that would increase the cost of energy, rather than help lower the cost of gas.

The national debt has skyrocketed more than $5 trillion under this president. Yet rather than actually do something about it, he pretends we could erase it by whacking millionaires.

Millions are looking for jobs. Yet rather than do something about it, he passes a health care bill that would impose massive new costs, he continues to threaten new tax hikes, and he empowers federal bureaucrats to cook up new rules and regulations that make it even harder for businesses to grow and to hire.

Unless Congress acts, one such rule goes into effect next week. Most people haven’t heard about it, because the president hasn’t been talking about it. But I’m happy to, because it says all you need to know about this president’s approach to jobs and the economy.

As a favor to big labor, the president is right now rushing a plan that would restrict an employer’s ability to educate workers about unionization efforts, as well as increase their legal bills and the already-high cost of complying with federal regulations.

And get this, the administration hasn’t even provided an analysis of these costs in moving forward with the proposal.

So tomorrow, senators, led by Senator Enzi, will have an opportunity to vote on this effort to make it even harder to do business in this country. We’ll have a chance to stand up against what this President is doing to the economy.

And in the process, we’ll be reminding people to focus on what this President does rather than what he says.

Look, at a time when America’s corporate income tax is now the highest in the world, we should be looking for ways to make it easier for businesses to hire, not harder. At a time when unemployment is above 13 percent for young people between the ages of 20-24 in this country, we should be finding ways to make it more likely they can find work, not harder.

But this is the Obama economy.

This is President Obama’s approach.

This is the painful legacy of his failed economic policies. The president may not want to discuss it. But Republicans will.

Irvine High School Reunion Weekend

The Irvine High School Reunion Weekend will kick off on Friday, June 15, with a golf scramble at the Estill County Golf Course. You may contact Larry Shearer or Joedy Ohr if you are interested in participating. Activities will continue on Friday evening with a few classes planning their own individual class reunions.

The main reunion will take place on Saturday evening, June 16 when all Irvine High School classes will join together at 6 p.m., at the old Irvine High School. Parking assistance will be provided, and golf carts will be available for those needing transportation from their car to the gym. The check-in process will take place in the gym, and should go very quickly if you have preregistered. Also in the gym, you will be able to visit with classmates and friends, peruse Irvine High School memorabilia, listen to music from your high school days, and view posters/banners representing all graduating classes. Food will be served throughout most of the evening at the Estill Springs Elementary School. A brief program will be held in the gym at approximately 9 p.m., after which you may continue to visit with classmates and friends.

While you may register/pay at the door, we encourage you to preregister before May 31. This will eliminate waiting in line, and allow you and the registration workers more time to enjoy the entire event. ## West Irvine Elementary winner of the District Attendance Banner once again

West Irvine Elementary is the winner of the District Attendance Banner for the eighth month of school, with 94.87 percent for the month and 95.01 percent for the year. The school has kept the banner for seven of the last eight months of school, with hopes to retain it for the ninth month. Students from grades 4 and 5 are pictured with the banner. Last week, all 4th grade students were in attendance on Wednesday and Thursday and all 5th grade students were in attendance on Friday. These students have earned a spot on Mrs. Martin's Attendance Wall of Fame for having 100 percent attendance on these days. Mrs. Martin attributes the school's great attendance to parents and staff who encourage students to come to school every day.

"...the best benefit of this program is that it literally cut our electric use in half!"

Rita Chrisman was so impressed with the impact her Jackson Energy Prepay Meter had on her energy bill that she sat down and wrote a letter!

In her letter, Rita explains that previously her winter electric bills would run above $500, but with the new Prepay Meter, bills dropped to just above $200...who wouldn't be excited with savings like that! She does such a great job of explaining how it works that we have posted her letter on our

MyJacksonEnergy.com website for all members to read.

Thanks for sharing, Rita! Because of your experience we're sure many others will check out this energy-saving service!

Successfully Transplanting Vegetables

Eric Baker

Agriculture Agent

With warmer weather, we will turn our attention to planting the vegetable garden. Getting your vegetable transplants set will give you some delicious homegrown produce in the months to come. Transplanting gives a plant more space to develop, but it will temporarily stop growth, not stimulate it. Therefore, for successful transplanting, try to interrupt plant growth as little as possible.

Whether you grow your own transplants or purchase them, these eight steps can ensure successful transplanting into the garden.

1. Transplant on a shady day in late afternoon or in early evening to prevent wilting.

2. Ensure transplants are well watered and their roots are thoroughly damp an hour or two before setting them in the garden.

3. Handle the plants carefully. Avoid disturbing the roots. Try removing plants from their containers by knocking them out in an inverted position rather than tugging on the plants. Plants growing in peat pots may be planted with the pot intact.

4. Dig a hole large enough to hold the roots. Set the plants to the lowest leaf at recommended spacing. Press soil firmly around the roots.

5. Pour one cup of a solution of soluble plant food and water mixed according to the label's directions.

6. Protect new transplants from cutworms by placing a cardboard collar around the base of the stem. Cardboard rolls from wrapping paper, paper towels, or bathroom tissue work well, or you can make your by cutting strips of cardboard and stapling the ends together. A tube two to three inches long and surrounding the plant at soil level will usually deter cutworms from feeding.

7. Put more soil around each plant, but leave a slight depression for water to collect. Break off any exposed parts of peat pots so that they will not act as wicks and pull water out of the soil.

8. Shade the plants for a few days after transplanting on a very hot day by putting newspapers or cardboard on their south sides or cover them with a woven cotton fabric such as cheese cloth.

9. Water the plants every 2-3 days during the next week if needed.

Wildflower Myths and Realities Program at Mushroom Festival

Perhaps you enjoy a dose of "poke salad" in the spring, or go on the annual "dry land fish" hunt. Did you know that poison hemlock is so toxic that just three leaves will kill you? Thomas Barnes, author of Rare Wildflowers of Kentucky says humans and plants have a fascinating history: we have affected plants through artificial selection and plants have affected us.

He will be in the mushroom market tent at the corner of Broadway and Court Street at 11 a.m. Sat., April 28 to tell many plant stories and discuss what is happening to rare plants in Kentucky. This program is funded in part by the Kentucky Humanities Council, Inc. and the National Endowment for the Humanities

HISTORY: Vanhuss compiled history of Kiwanis

the primary factor in introducing the first pure bred bull into the Estill County stock line. Some years ago, it became apparent that Estill County farmers had little or no market for the milk that they produced and the situation had become a financial drag on tight farm budgets. The club was approached and took the lead in organizing and establishing a local dairy. Many meetings were held and many obstacles were overcome in putting this program together. The dairy functioned for several years and was later sold to private interests. It has also become somewhat of a tradition for the club to sponsor a dinner during Farm-City Week and have farmers attend a meeting as the Club's guests. This has become a popular event and has created much enthusiasm. Enthusiasm, like measles and the common cold can be very contagious. By talking to one another and working together on projects, our farmers, businessmen and professional people have developed/shared concerns and the desire to strive toward common goals together. One night in 1949 at a cookout in the Kiwanis Park, the Club endorsed a plan to sponsor and promote a horse show project for the county. A committee met with Clark County horseman and auctioneer, Bud Hamilton and soon the project became a reality. The show was held on the Irvine High School grounds, advertisements were bought by sponsors, programs were printed, booths were arranged and goodly crowds attended the event. These shows were continued annually through the year of 1954 and then were discontinued because of the fear of financial loss in case of rain or other adverse conditions. Later on, the horse show was taken up by the Estill County Fair Board and continues today.

During the late 1950's the community became concerned to an ever increasing degree about the dearth of quality healthy care for all its citizens. Agreement was reached that hospital facilities were sorely needed to alleviate the situation. About that same time, congress passed the Hill-Burton Act that made federal funds available to small towns and rural areas that needed hospital services. The Irvine-Ravenna Kiwanis Club took up this challenge but not without some trepidation because the project was going to be a monumental one which would require a large investment of time and talent. However, it stuck to its' guns and paved the way for the establishment of the Estill County Hospital which is known as the Marcum-Wallace Memorial Hospital today. John W. Walker, a Kiwanian and local attorney, handled all the legal matters for the project and they were immense to put it mildly. Forms for the bond issue had to be prepared and deeds had to be researched and obtained. A multitude of details had to be worked out and differences resolved. There were hundreds of routine matters that called for the wisdom of Solomon and the patience of Job. All of these things were done and the hospital has been a blessing to this county and surrounding areas since that time. Who can say how many lives have been saved and how many more will be spared because of the availability of this wonderful facility.

Let us look now at a somewhat different sphere of operation in which the Irvine-Ravenna Kiwanis Club was involved for period of some thirty years. From 1941 until about 1971, the club sponsored Troop 144 of the Boy Scouts of America. During this time period approximately 600 boys passed through the troop on the way to their life experiences. Sixty of these boys attained the rank of Eagle Scout which is the highest rank in the scouting program. Many were accepted into the Order of the Arrow, a scouting honorary camping society and others received the God and Country Award which is a church/religious award sponsored by the scouting program. Five leaders were honored with the Silver Beaver Award for distinguished service and the troop was the recipient of numerous recognitions by the Blue Grass Council and the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America. Several governors and three presidents of the United States awarded the Troop Citation for Outstanding Service and it was represented at three National Jamborees and one World Jamboree. In 1948 and 1961 the unit attended Scouting National Wilderness area at Cimeron, New Mexico. Many former scouts of Troop 144 hold positions of prominence across the nation and nearly all have become contributing citizens to their respective communities. Their testimonies are a witness to the leadership development, character building, and citizenship training that they received during their scouting years.

During the late 1920's and all through the 1930's and early 1940's, the nation was involved in troubled economic times. Programs to aid the unfortunate were either non-existent or in their infancy and many people were hurting. Off and on during this trying period, the Irvine-Ravenna Kiwanis Club conducted an emergency relief program known as Associated Charities. Many people were in need of food, fuel and medicine and their situation was often desperate. The Associated Charities program proved to be a life saver in that it enabled people to get through a tough spot in life until they could find a job or secure help from friends or family.

For the past several years, the Irvine-Ravenna Kiwanis Club has been the agent of distribution for the W. R.

Prewitt Memorial Fund and hundreds of dollars has been distributed to needy persons and public service groups. The programs assisted through this fund has touched the lives of many persons and has had a salutary effect on the entire community.

At one time, club members put together food baskets for the needy at Christmas season but later transferred that program to Troop 144 who distributed over one hundred baskets every year. Many families would have had a bleak Christmas indeed if this program had not been in place. There is more hunger out in these hills and valleys than one would want to believe. In recent years the Irvine-Ravenna Kiwanis Club has once again assumed the project of Christmas basket distribution as well as provided a Christmas Holiday Parade on the first Saturday in December.

Probably the largest project that the Irvine-Ravenna Kiwanis Club has sponsored for the past 60 years has been the summer baseball program. Beginning in the mid 1950's and continuing on this 90th Anniversary of the Club, countless boys and girls have participated in the Little League, Mighty Mite, Pony League, and Softball programs. The facilities were originally located at the Kiwanis Park on the Irvine School grounds. They were moved to the Estill County Fair grounds for a few years in the late 1970's through most of the 1980's and were then moved to the new Kiwanis Park facilities in Ravenna, KY. This park was created when the club bought 40+ acres of land and subsequently developed it into four baseball/softball fields. The park has since been expanded to five fields and serves more than 400 young people each summer in addition to a church league and also provides the public schools extra space when necessary.

Other projects that come to mind with which the Irvine-Ravenna Kiwanis Club has been involved include but are not limited to: The Joe Ohr Kiwanis Scholarships, The Estill County High School Key Club, Sponsorship of a dental service through the National Health Service Corp., Summer maintenance of the old Irvine Cemetery, The Estill County Ministerial Association SHARE program, Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts, The Estill County Library summer reading program, The Elizabeth Witt Christmas Party, Relay for Life, GED testing fees for needy adults, Highway cleanup, Readers and books for the early childhood centers of the Estill County Schools, The Academic Teams of Estill County Middle and High Schools, The Mountain Mushroom Festival, The Salvation Army (serving as bell ringers), The Foster Children program, The Estill County Food Bank, West Care drug rehabilitation program. Hospice Care and numerous other programs.

ENCOURAGING WORD: A GUIDING PRINCIPLE

Howard Coop
Guest Columnist

With the plans that I had made before me, I began to work and everything seemed to go exceedingly well. I was pleased and pleasantly surprised. One task after another was completed on time and as planned. The day, I thought, was moving forward perfectly and in the right direction, and I was certain that, at the end of the day, real accomplishment would be a reality.

After a while, I paused to rest and, for a moment, to reflect on how well things were going.

During that moment of rest and pleasant reflec-

The day, a beautiful one, began as most days usually do. A rather long to-do list had been prepared, and plans, in some detail, had been made for the activities of the day. Realizing the number of things on that long list and what had to be done before the day ended, I was somewhat eager to begin the activities of the day.

tion, I was faced with another stark reality. Suddenly and without warning, the day's activities were interrupted. An emergency developed, and immediately, everything changed. I was faced with a demanding responsibility that took precedent over everything I was doing and had planned to do that day.

But that's life, isn't it? Everything seems to be moving ahead smoothly and without difficulty. Then, when we least expect it, something happens that interrupts all plans, and the normal flow of life is changed. Sometimes these interruptions that occur in the normal schedule are minor, and they cause little trouble. After a blip in the schedule, things fall into place. Everything returns to normal, and life goes on. But there are other times when those things that interrupt the normally scheduled activities of life are vastly different. They are more than blips in the daily schedule. They are truly cataclysmic, and they change the course of life.

Something reliable---a guiding principle---is necessary to help one deal with these recurring problems and give stability to life.

Finally, some good news

A lot has happened since I wrote my last "Clay update." Two weeks ago I said that the doctors wanted the baby as stable as possible before they would do the surgery to repair his hernia for the second time.

He was very, very sick the first couple of weeks, but during the third week, he seemed to be getting right where he needed to be for surgery—that's when he developed a bit of pneumonia and had to be put back on another round of antibiotics.

We were afraid that meant the surgery wouldn't happen for quite a while, but the surgeons made the decision to insert a G-tube (a feeding tube directly into the stomach) on Tuesday if Clay was stable enough, a procedure that takes about an hour.

Clay had a better-than-expected weekend, so when Tuesday came, the docs said they would insert the feeding tube, and if he handled that well, they would try the repair surgery.

Obviously, last Tuesday was a tense day for us, but Clay appeared ready for it. Despite having received so much sedative, he was awake when they took him down to the operating room—the most awake I'd seen him in the previous three weeks since he got so sick again.

About an hour after Clay was taken down, a nurse called the waiting room and said the doctors had changed their minds and decided to begin with the more complicated surgery—the repair surgery.

A few anxious hours later, we got word that the second repair was over, and the surgeon was pleased with the way it went.

The second and third days after surgery were really rough for the little guy. No matter how much pain and sedation medicine he got, Clay just couldn't get comfortable. One of the nurses noticed that he broke out in hives and became more agitated after receiving blood through an IV. She guessed that he was having a reaction to a preservative in the blood product and was able to give him something to provide some relief.

Poor little guy! Not only did he suffer, but it was tough on everyone else to see him so unhappy.

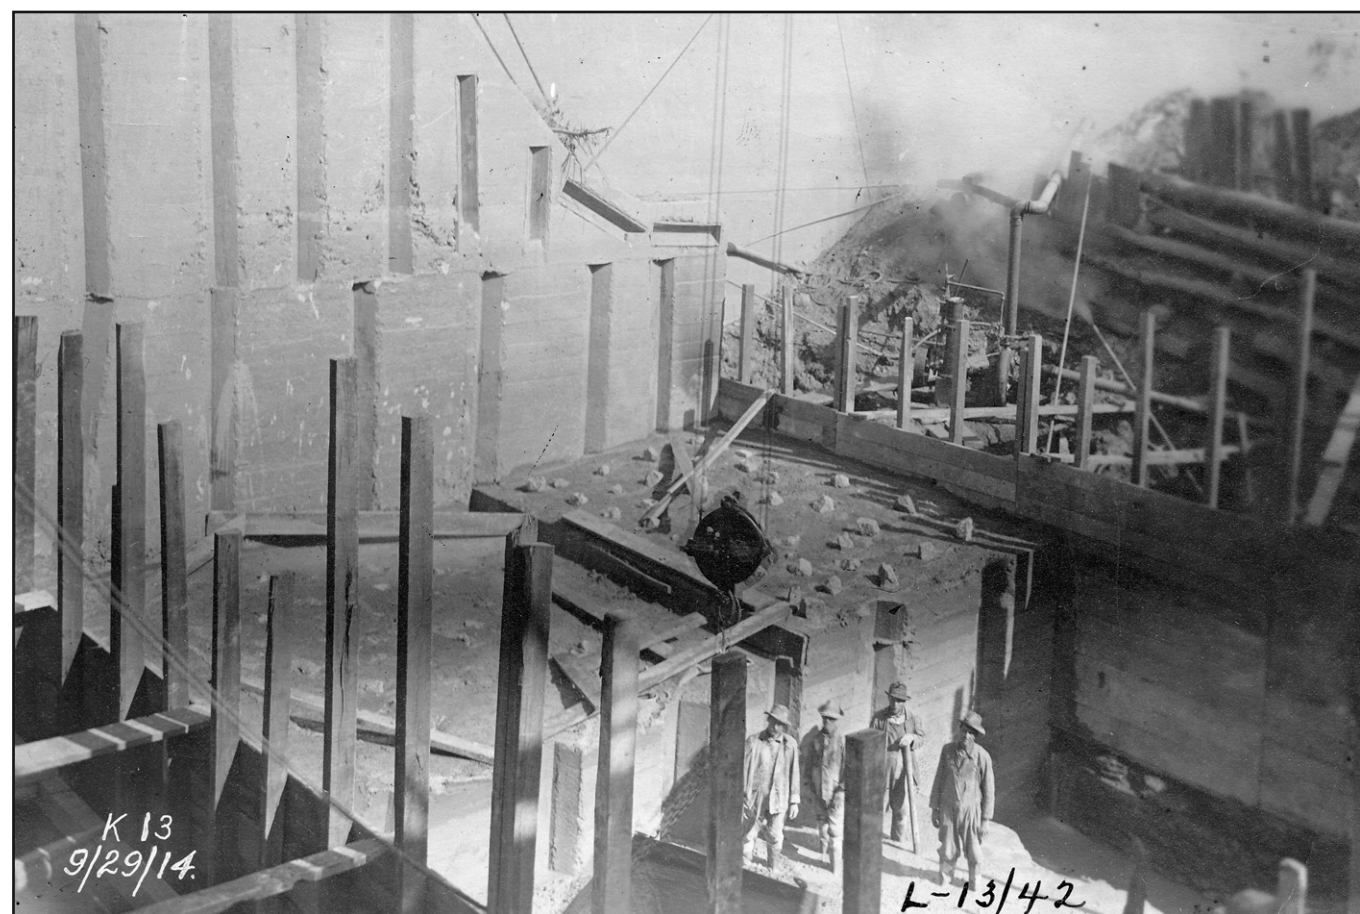

After those first three days, though, the trend has been upward. Clay's been awake a lot more, and the brave little guy is smiling again! Sometimes I wonder how, considering all that he's been through.

I'm just hoping and praying that he doesn't remember the misery of the past few weeks. So far, he doesn't appear to be holding it against anyone.

Clay isn't completely back to himself though. His muscles are weak and his joints are stiff from lack of use. He seems to have some difficulty focusing his eyes. He's getting small feeds through a tube in his nose again, but he's having some spit-up issues.

Our little guy is definitely on the road to recovery, but he has a lot of recuperating left to do. Prayers for his continued healing are appreciated, as always.
